JUDGMENT

MABESELE, J:

- [1] This is an appeal against conviction on a charge of attempted murder for which the appellant was sentenced to a period of 10 (ten) years imprisonment. The court a quo ordered that 5 years of the 10 years imprisonment sentence should be served concurrently with any other sentence that the appellant is serving.
- [2] The evidence is that the appellant and two others were driving in a vehicle that was chased by the police. After they were arrested and brought to court on a charge of attempted murder for shooting at the police, the appellant's co-accused namely; Themba Motau, appealed his conviction. His appeal was upheld by this court on 28 November 2022; firstly, due to failure by the state to prove beyond reasonable doubt that the shots that were fired from the said vehicle were directed at the police. Secondly, failure by the state to prove beyond reasonable doubt who, amongst the occupants of the vehicle fired shots, since the state did not allege that they acted in furtherance of a common purpose.
- [3] Therefore, it is logical that the appeal of the appellant against his conviction be upheld.
- [4] In the result, the following order is made:

4.1 The appeal against conviction is upheld.

4.2 The conviction and sentence are set aside.
