Defendant was indebted to the Plaintiff. In order to settle the debt, she issued three cheques dated 30/4/97, worth a total of US $23,159. The cheques were drawn on A/C No. \line 050007312 of the 2nd Defendant at the Plaintiff Bank. All the three cheques were dishonoured on presentation. Notice of dishonour was duly given to the Defendants. The Plaintiff brought this suit for Judgment against the Defendants jointly/severally or alternatively for:

\par In a bid to prove its claim, the Plaintiff adduced the evidence of Mr. Alizera Kalan, head of its international division (PW1). He informed Court that he was involved in the transaction which led to this suit.

On the 13/2/97, the Plaintiff bank purchased a cheque worth US

$21,773, issued by }{\lang1033\langfe2057\langnp1033\insrsid218623\charrsid209456 Mrs.}

Alemayehu on her personal account with Credit Lyonnais Bank, New York. That same day, and before her cheque was cleared by the corresponding bank in New York, the Plaintiff paid her the equivalent Uganda shillings. This was a service the Plaintiff extended only to reputable people or NGOs who were well known to the bank. The 1st Defendant was such a person as a Director and authorised signatory of the 2nd Defendant.

That cheque was however, returned unpaid. When the bank contacted her, she pleaded that she had run out of funds because she had invested the money in the school and she would soon recover the money to pay from the school. She then issued the 3 post-dated cheques in issue. She was the only authorised signatory to the school account. All the three cheques bounced; with the words 'Refer to Drawer.'⁹⁴ (Exhibit P1).

The cheques were not taken under duress. They were taken in good faith. This was obvious from the letters the 1st Defendant wrote promising to clear the debt. (Exh. P3). The bank parted with money and should be paid back the amount with compounded interest at 36% p.a, plus legal fees.

The 1st

Defendant was absent during the hearing although notified. Her lawyer Mr. Byamugisha had earlier on informed this Court that she was in U. K. When he made giving it, requiring the person to whom it is addressed to pay on demand or at a fixed or determinable future time a sum certain in money to or to the order of a specified person or to the bearer.'

Under S. 55 of the Act, the drawer a bill is liable to compensate the holder if a bill is dishonoured. The relevant part provides that:

55 (1) The drawer of a bill by drawing it -

(a) engages that on due presentment it shall be accepted and paid according to its tenor, and that if it be dishonoured he will compensate the holder or any endorser who is compelled to pay it, provided the requisite proceedings on dishonour be duly taken.

A holder of a dishonoured cheque may therefore sue the drawer on the consideration as well as on the instrument. The general rule is that payment by cheque or other negotiable instrument is conditional upon payment and the debtor is not discharged unless and until the cheque instrument is honoured. See:

Essays in African Banking Law and Practice (supra) at page 205.

Regarding the 1st issue, Mr. Kiapi submitted that there is indeed a cause of action against the Defendants. He relied on the case of AUTO GARAGE -VS MOTOKOV

The general effect of these provisions is therefore that contrary to the general rule in contract, the burden of proof is put on the Defendant to prove any special circumstances which exonerate him from liability on the cheque. It is a rebuttable presumption of fact. The party resisting payment of a bill has to rebut it by proving either that there was absence or failure of consideration or that the consideration was illegal. See: }
